

When the books were put away and the halls were cleared, teachers began to unwind.

North Putnam kept busy

"If I have to average one more person's grade, I'll go crazy!" echoed one frustrated teacher at the end of the first semester.

"Boo! Get another referee out there!" stated one irate super booster at a North Putnam basketball game.

One senior was overheard saying, "Only forty days, three hours, ten minutes, and four seconds left until graduation!"

"Mirror, mirror, on the wall. Might I be the fairest of them all?" This might have been Mike White's reaction as he masqueraded as Dona Lucia D'Alvadorez in CHARLEY'S AUNT, the autumn Thespian production.

Most extracurricular activities were extensions of the academic curriculum.

"Would you please justify this after you get the dummy done? Check the morgue to see if we had that item in the last issue."

"Our exchange student from South America, Frank Kanayet, is going to speak at our next Spanish Club meeting."

Charles Riggle was only one of the many students who helped to dress up North Putnam for the Christmas season.
