

A helping hand

Mr. Evens

One of the main purposes of any guidance office was to help any student who had a problem. And many students found it necessary to talk over their many problems, mostly about "WHAT AFTER HIGH SCHOOL," with NP's two very qualified counselors, Mr. Evens and Mrs. Greeson.

Along with talking with several high school teens daily, they also talked to student's parents about grades.

They also had a giant job of orienting the juniors and seniors and helping the students to fill out and send in applications for entry and scholarships to thousands of colleges across the U.S.

Mrs. Greeson

Guidance counselor, Mrs. Kay Greeson, busily prepared the class schedule for the students of 1970-71.
