

Color me blue

"Are we going to silk screen or do a woodcut?"

"Did you fire your vase in the kiln?"

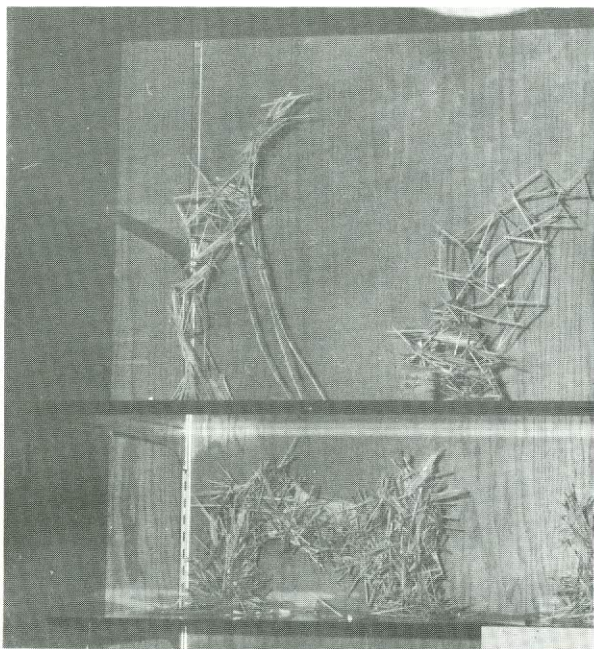

"All entries are to be turned in today for the Art Show!"

These and many more statements were heard from the creative art students at North Putnam.

Poster painting at sectional time, hand lettering signs, designing toothpick sculptures, or drawing a blue ribbon caricature to be displayed at the spring Art Show kept the North Putnam students busy in art class.

Miss Daseler kept the kiln fired, the pencils sharpened, and the students busy.

N.P. art students came up with many creative projects, including toothpick constructions.

To boost school morale as tourney time drew near, one art class drew N.P.'s mascot--the cougar.

Miss Daseler always found time to discuss an interesting art project with a student.

Miss Daseler

An art class helped stimulate imagination, brought a new awareness of a student's surroundings, and permitted pupils to create their own products.

