

Mrs. Irwin often stayed late to hear speech students practice.

The librarian assistant, Mrs. Baird, checked out many books per day for knowledge-seeking students.

SPEECH AND LIBRARY

Page 4, line 7, again, please

The speech class debated, gave humorous readings, and even demonstrated how to make a jewelry case.

Speech students came from the library with book in hand. Researching from periodicals or encyclopedias, the speech students utilized the library's fine facilities throughout the year.

Students who took speech learned to talk intellectually about citizenship, motors, or the better cuts of beef. The major goal of speech class was to instill confidence in oneself in order to speak before an audience.

Mrs. Hanna worked diligently as N.P.'s librarian. Mrs. Irwin turned out prize-winning speech students for N.P.