

GAA

"Are you sure it's a basketball?"

GAA is the average American girl's answer to boys' intramurals.

GAA'ers spent many week-day afternoons bowling in Crawfordsville or playing volleyball in the gym. And if you were lucky, you were on the girls' basketball team, that selected group of persons who crawled out of bed at 6 A.M. to bounce the basketball around the gym at 7:00. These girls came to first period class red-faced and out of breath.

Alas, there are drawbacks to every facet of life, whether it be as academic student, professional teacher, or as a member of GAA.

Mrs. Cox, sponsor of GAA, gave strategic pointers to several members of the club.

The girls' locker room was filled with girls during GAA meetings. DexAnna Osborne,

Marsha Soloman, and others discussed their latest bowling games.
