

7th grade cheerleaders were (top to bottom) S. Duncan, S. Redifer, M. Unger, and S. McGaughey.

Cheers for the 8th grade were led by (l. to r.) Kim McBride, Treva Mattingly, Lisa Summers, and Jeanna Clodfelter (not shown).

School brewed spirit juice

Energetic, lively and spirited easily described North Putnam's twenty-two cheerleaders this year. They had their problems organizing the Pep Club (two times) and raising the school spirit, but they came through with success.

At the beginning of the basketball season, one group of cheerleaders could be found practicing yells and learning new motions every night after school.

Becoming more concerned with school spirit, the cheerleaders stayed after school to make signs and booster pins.

At sectional time the spirit zoomed and the cheerleaders even coaxed Rick Mitchell into wearing a Cougar head as mascot at the tourney.

The brave person who sponsored the yell-leaders, listened to their problems, let them have run of her room, and didn't scream when they bought twenty-three suckers with Pep Club money was Miss Daseler.

Cheerleaders for the 9th grade were Rusa Rooker, Angie Frazier, Jenny Summers, Jerri Summers.
