

The cycle of the seasons reflects the countless beginnings and endings which are human existence. The tree, as it passes from dormancy to bud to leaf to crimson autumn glory and becomes once again a leafless silhouette, mirrors the many stages of our lives.

