

Winter Miseries Victimize NP

1978 brought the worst winter in Hoosier history. Schools and businesses were forced to cut their electrical usage by 50%, leaving N.P. cold and dark. In January a blizzard struck, affecting not only towns but also railroads. In Bainbridge volunteers helped rescue stranded passengers from a frozen Am-Track train. Students wore long underwear as thermostats were lowered.

