The class of 1985 was a class with class. This group of young men and ladies shared many wild and fun times together. Most of the future SENIORS of North Putnam will have to try hard to live up to the crazy pranks accomplished by this "classy class".

Since we first stepped through the doors of North Putnam as insecure seventh graders, we've been growing at peak speed, learning, criticizing, and developing our minds and ideas. These were six short years to prepare for a future of hope and progress. We love N.P. with a bit of a tug at our hearts, yet with a yearning to press onward and to experience what we've been preparing for.

To college, or work, or whatever life brings each of us, we will always know we shared ideas, and good and bad times at North Putnam. We are the class of 1985, and nothing can change that. Friends, let's be proud for what we have and are about to accomplish.
