Beware you are now entering the Yearbook Zone! If you had ever dared to enter the yearbook office you would have taken this in heed. Lay-outs and copy everywhere, but you dared not to touch it. Our teacher, Ms. Judi Huter, had a rough start, but she slowly grasped the strenuous routine. The yearbook staff worked long and hard to meet all their deadlines. Our editor, Julie Klainmann, tried to teach the staff the proper procedures of production. (Editors note: A special thank you to Ms. Huter and the staff for a yearbook "team effort.")

Ms. Huter and "The Ed"

Do you remember the tap, tap, tap, coming out of the Journalism office all day long? Well that was your newspaper staff hard at work. Our teacher, Ms. Judi Huter, was over-run by the constant flow of people roaming in and out of the office, looking for their articles. Our co-editors, Cheryl Patterson and Jolie Martin worked endlessly to get papers out on time.

Special thanks go out to Mr. Steward and Scott Croan for spending hours after school running the press.
