At the beginning of the seventh grade, it's scary. You don't know many people, and you don't know what to do or where to go. You have to adjust to an eight period schedule and eight new teachers. There are no recesses and you go from being the top grade to being the bottom. You have to be polite and courteous to have a good reputation.

You also meet new people, sometimes through classes, games, or social events. You have to sacrifice leaving old friends and making new ones.

The beginning of the second semester feels more at home. You know how the school works and you get used to the change. You know almost everyone and you have more friends.

At the end of the school year you know the school really well and can't wait till next year.
