For a good time . . . bust a move!

"Jr. High Dance Saturday, November 7th. With host D.J. 'Dancin' Daryll' from WKPX. Be there and Bust a Move."

Rebecca stared at the poster advertising the dance. Bust a Move. That sounded pretty good to her. Saturdays were boring to her. So why not go?

She and her friends decided to go to the dance. Everybody was going to be there, especially Mark, the guy she'd had her eye on since the beginning of the year. Maybe they would dance together! She couldn't wait.

The days dragged by. She was all set. All she needed was for Saturday night to get there.

Finally after what seemed eons, Saturday night got there. She got dressed and her dad drove her to school.

When she stepped into the cafeteria, she was astonished. Laser lights flashed in all directions, lighting up the otherwise dark room. Strobe lights were flashing from each corner, and a large screen was showing the music videos for the songs that were playing. The music was playing loudly. The room seemed alive, pulsating with sound. She began to dance. Finally, Mark asked her to dance. After the dance, she went home happy because she did Bust A Move!
