

Work Hard

by Bobby Hatch

To quote Duke University head basketball coach Mike Krzyzewski after the championship game of the NCAA tournament, "Basketball is a kid's game and they play it well." This year's varsity boy's may not have won a state title, a sectional championship, or even a county championship but that did not take away from the excitement of the games or the work ethic in practice. The team was led by the only returning letterman and part-time point guard Justin Barker. He scored 283 out of the team's 1268 total points. The 7-14 cougars had to dip out of the WCC for five of their seven victories. The team lost Jeff Reed's 10.6 ppg during the Fountain Central game to an ankle injury. The team was hard to stop sometimes with Ryan Gruenholz averaging 9.4 ppg, Paul Schubert putting down 8 ppg, and David Schubert and Andy Sutton combining to net 9.7 ppg between them.
