"Is it Safe?"

That was the question many people were asking as more and more sophomores were getting their licence.

It seemed like everywhere you went on the roads you would see one of the sophomores. That was what scared people the most.

For a lot of sophomores, getting their license was their first sign of freedom and the most exciting experience that happened to them during their sophomore year. So they were out driving every chance they had while other sophomores were waiting to get their license or a car.

But before you decide to go for a drive, ask yourself if there is a chance that Emmie Everts, Ameer VanScoyk, Donny Sample, or any other member of the class of '96 might be out driving. If the answer to this question is, "Yes" then my advice to you is, "Stay home, it really isn't safe!" ♦by Annette Montgomery
