

Math, Science, and Computers = Skills for Future

By: Tina Coleman

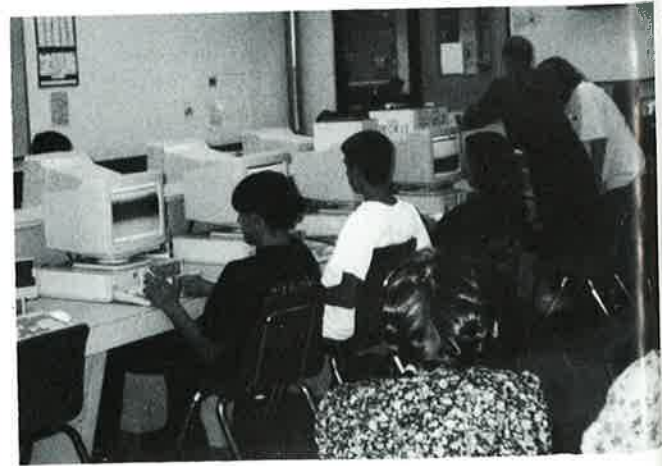

This year there was a new computer lab, and with the new lab students were able to type their homework for classes. They also had access to a lot of information to help them do research. Seniors also used the computers to type letters to prospective colleges and to look up information about them.

Mr. Dave Weaver was the supervisor of the new computer lab and was always willing to assist students with any questions they had.

Like anything new, there were a few bugs to work out, but as the year went on things seemed to smooth out. Most students agreed that the computer lab was a needed and welcomed addition.

Students work in groups in math as Mrs. Steward instructs them.

Freshmen trying out the new computer lab.