

SCIENCE

COMPUTERS

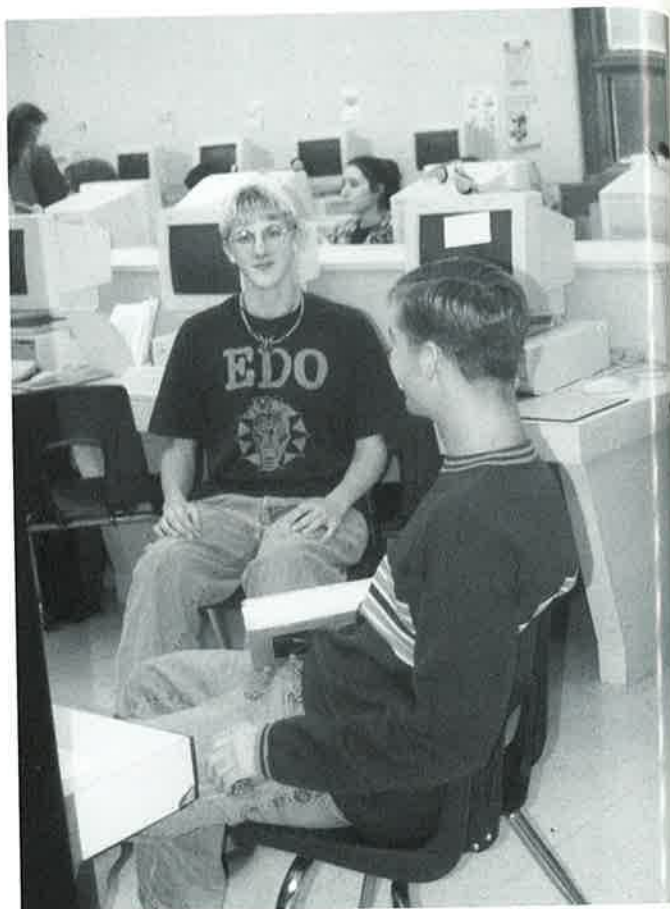

How Did I Do That? Junior Lee Nascimebene participated in a science experiment during the Purdue Physics Convocation sponsored by the North Putnam Science Department.

I Hope Its Dead! Two freshmen students dissect a worm in Mr. Cialkowski's class.

Is It Working? Students in Mrs. Maier's chemistry class work on an experiment outside on the sidewalk.

Speaking Computerese? Junior J.D. Burchett and Mark Ginder take a break from working on their computers. The computer rooms were used for Keyboarding and business classes taught by Mr. Nicholson and Mrs. Hendrich. New to the computer labs this year was the introduction of the internet.

Typing Away... The computer lab was often the place to see students looking up resources for their research papers. Many teachers reserved the computer lab for the entire class period to give their students time to research and type their assignments. Many students also used the lab before school, during the new SRT period, and after school.