

Left: Sammy L. Davis, an Army Sergeant, received the Medal Of Honor for his courageous actions on November 18, 1967, during the Vietnam War. Sergeant Davis was born in Dayton, Ohio, grew up in the Indianapolis area and graduated from Mooresville High School. The medal which Davis received was presented by then President Lyndon B. Johnson, on November 19, 1968. Davis spoke to NPHS students and staff during a Veterans Day convocation.

Left: Candice Hunt and Colleen Thornburgh show admiration for Army Sergeant Davis as they pass Sergeant Davis' medal around.

Career Fair, Habitat & Semester One Speakers

Right: 2000 grad Ben Majors watches as Debra Clarkson uses the staple gun to put up some insulation.

Matt Livesay and Alan Stacy help cut the siding for a house on the job site of Habitat for Humanity.

Above: Meghan McBride, Nikki Finchum, and Katie Owens listen to a speaker at the 2000 Career Fair.

Left: Seniors Amanda Fordice and Paul Pierce try to find their way through the displays at the Career Fair.

Past, present and future NPHS students as well as staff members work to lend a hand with the contractors of the Habitat for Humanity house.