

MARCHING COUGARS

* RECAP OF THE YEAR *

BEFORE AND AFTER THE SHOWS

1. Color guard member Lida Oliver jumps into the marching line to finish the parade.

2. At the Homecoming game the drumline performed "Children of Malaguena."

3. Tressman Goode and Candace Whitaker on the sidelines wait to perform.

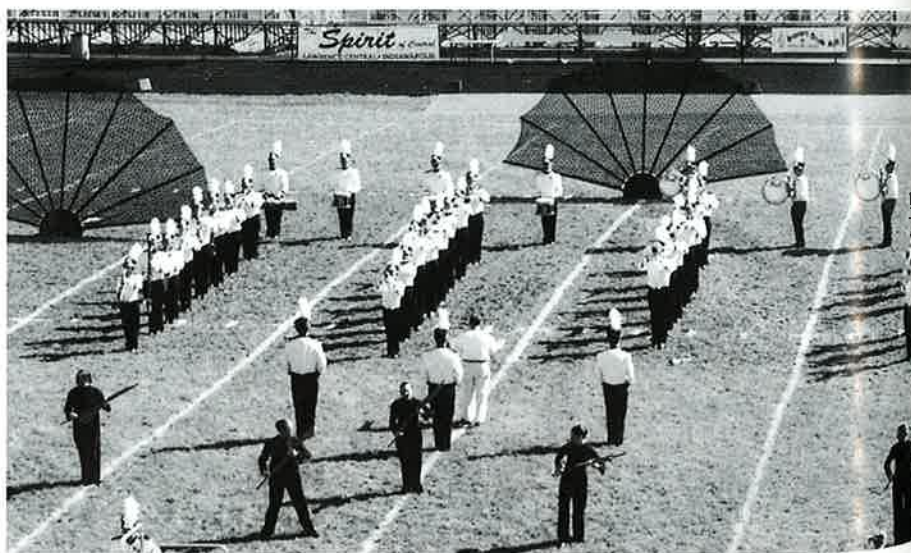

4. Happy time on the bus Lindsey Snodgrass smiles for the camera.

The Marching Cougars had a great year. Their show was written by Lee Gibson and directed by David Knott and Luke Fletcher. The season started with an exciting band camp at Saint Mary of the Woods. The Putnam County Fair Parade went well this year.

With all of the things we did to get donations, from the car washes to selling candles, the Band and Guard became one huge family. If someone had a problem they would go to another band member or guard member.

The season ended as quickly as it started. With all the laughter and tears this had to be one of the greatest marching seasons. For everyone who was in the marching band they should be glad they are respected by parents, teachers, school board, peers, and other schools.

CHILDREN OF MALAGUENA

The Marching Cougars wait for their cue to start the show for the 2002 marching season. They performed "Children of Malaguena."

The clarinets perform their hearts out on Senior Night. They went on to perform the next day.
