

TRENT SUITORS

Sweet Boy Of Mine
Your Dreams Are My Dreams

As I turn off the lamps at bedtime, I will wonder, as all parents do, about a day in the not so distant future when that little head keeps popping up "For one more drink of water" will be missing. The Suitors' house will then be still and empty of alternating tears and laughter of my little boy who has gone away to follow his dreams.

Years can go by, and you may sail on distant seas. But I will keep your childhood treasures: The bird nest collection, the ever-so-swift ninja sword, and the "Big Man" Bowie knife all for safe keeping. Spike, your faithful friend, will be here waiting for your return. I know you will come home many times throughout every tomorrow, to meet old memories and return to the past.

Son, no matter how many miles separate you from yesterday, anywhere you live is always close to home. I'll keep the blueberry muffins warm, always listening for the back door to swing open, bringing my little boy bursting through the door with warm smiles and pockets full of the day's adventures.

May your future be filled with success and happiness, and may all of your dreams come true.

Love,
Mom and Dad
