

TEENAGE YEARS

Smiles, tears, superficial fears, all a part of the teenage years. First dates, first kisses, one too many hits and misses.

The best years of growing up with great achievements and screwing up.

Good girls, bad boys, finally throwing out old toys. Sneaking out and getting caught, remembering all the fights we've fought.

Girlfriends, boyfriends, hoping their love never ends. Heartbreaks, making out, just to hear your parents shout.

High school, college, and then it ends. It's time to change once again. But we'll always remember all the times when we won, we lost, and when we cried.

We'll always have memories of our fights and fears, and all the good times spent in our teenage years. -anonymous
